NYCFC gives New York a title shot

MLS Cup: Big Apple team vs. Portland Timbers

Major League Soccer's 26th season will come to a close with Saturday's MLS Cup (3 p.m. ET, ABC and UniMás).

For the third time in seven seasons, the Portland Timbers are in the league's championship game. However, this is the first time that the Timbers will host MLS Cup at their venerable home stadium, Providence Park, and in front of their famous supporters group, the Timbers Army. The Timbers won MLS Cup in 2015 in Columbus, Ohio, against the Crew but were defeated in the 2018 title game by Atlanta United.

New York City FC, which joined MLS as an expansion team in 2015, is appearing in its first MLS Cup.

Can the Timbers win a title on their home turf, or will NYCFC cap a remarkable postseason run with its first league championship?

Here is how USA TODAY Network experts see MLS Cup 2021 going down:

Pat Brennan, Cincinnati Enquirer: NYCFC 2, Portland 1. Portland has an obvious edge in hosting the 2021 MLS Cup final at Providence Park, but New York City FC regains a more important edge with the return of Valentin Castellanos, the best goal scorer who will be on the field for both teams. Prior to Castellanos' red card against New England Revolution in the Eastern Conference semifinals and subsequent suspension for the conference final win against Philadelphia Union, the 2021 Golden

Maximiliano Moralez celebrates with NYCFC teammates after scoring against Philadelphia Union in the Eastern finals win. BILL STREICHER/USA TODAY SPORTS

Boot winner was in form with two play-off goals (versus Atlanta and New England). He'll be grateful to see competition again in the championship match after his suspension. NYCFC took out Philadelphia without Castellanos, so it's hard to imagine them getting knocked off from their title push with him back in the fold.

Drake Hills, The Tennessean: Portland Timbers 2, NYCFC 0. MLS Cup final experience and home-field advantage will play a big part in this outcome, but so will Felipe Mora. Portland's Chilean striker has 12 goals to his name this year and one can vividly envision Providence Park erupting in uncontrollable elation after a Mora goal to break the scoring deadlock. There's too much of a force from the Timbers, even though NYCFC's "Taty" Castellanos will be returning from his one-game suspension in the Eastern Conference final. Portland will get weird on Saturday and the Timbers will lift its second MLS Cup.

Jacob Myers, The Columbus Dispatch: NYCFC 2, Portland Timbers 1. Toward the end of their careers, what a send-off it would be for Diego Valeri and Sebastian Blanco to win MLS Cup on their home field. But I'm going with the upset on the belief that New York City has slightly better offensive firepower than Portland. This pick is somewhat of a bet that Valentin Castellanos comes back from a suspension with vengeance and will be the most dangerous man on the field. The city of New York gets its first major pro sports championship since 2011.

Jim Reineking, USA TODAY Sports: Portland Timbers 2, NYCFC 1. Let the Cascadia trash talk begin! With a victory Saturday, the Timbers would match their bitter archrivals, the Seattle Sounders, with two MLS Cup victories. The Timbers will enjoy as good a home-field advantage as any MLS Cup participant has enjoyed (Seattle in 2019 and Atlanta in 2018 also come to mind) at Providence Park and in front of the raucous Timbers Army. Not only will NYCFC have to contend with that, but the cross-country trip and third playoff game in 12 days are a big ask for a game of this magnitude.

FSU women celebrate 3rd soccer title

Curt Weiler

Tallahassee Democrat | USA TODAY Network

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — The wait was definitely worth it for the Florida State women's soccer team.

The Seminoles got a warm welcome home that was two years in the making Tuesday evening when they arrived back on campus. The Marching Chiefs and a large crowd of FSU fans awaited them after they won the program's third national championship Monday night in Santa Clara, California.

As FSU exited the bus in front of the Unconquered Statue led by team captain Jaelin Howell carrying the NCAA trophy, it was a moment of pure exultation from players, staff members and fans alike.

"Seeing all these fans supporting our team and our program, I don't know how you can ask for a whole lot more than that," FSU head coach Mark Krikorian said. "We as a team are grateful for the support that we have here in the community and the university as well."

Less than seven months earlier, the Seminoles fell in a penalty kick shootout to Santa Clara in the national championship match, coming up one win short of the first undefeated season in program history.

There was no undefeated season this time, but FSU avenged last season's demons this fall, finishing off a 22-1-2 season with a 4-3 penalty kick shootout win over BYU in the College Cup to bring home the program's third NCAA title, all of which have come since 2014.

"It never gets old, does it? It's a joy,"

Florida State University soccer players brought home the NCAA women's title trophy Tuesday. TORI LYNN SCHNEIDER/TALLAHASSEE DEMOCRAT

FSU director of athletics David Coburn said of winning the title, which he said is FSU's 18th national title across all sports.

"I will say this: National championships are tough. They are hard to win in any sport, at any level. When you get to the Final Four, I don't care who you are, you're going to play some tough competition. This is a team that lost in the finals last year and came back and decided it wasn't going to happen again."

For Coburn, it's a fitting send-off as he nears retirement after three-plus years as FSU's AD. It's also an ending fitting the start to his tenure as the FSU soccer team won its second national title while he was still the interim AD in December 2018.

For new FSU President Richard McCollough, it was quite the introduction to FSU's championship pedigree less than four months into his tenure in Tallahassee.

Over the last two seasons — a period that has included a COVID-19-affected season, the 2020 NCAA Tournament being pushed to spring of 2021 and a short offseason before the regularly scheduled 2021 season — the Seminoles have amassed a 35-2-4 record, two national title appearances and one NCAA championship.

"Like the rest of the Florida State family, we were on the edge of our seats. But we had no doubt that you'd bring home the title," McCullough said at the ceremony at FSU's Champions Club following the team's arrival.

"Coach Mark, you've built the best soccer program in the country and brought such prestige to Florida State University. To win three national titles in (eight) years is simply amazing."

Dating back to the start of this year's preseason camp, the Seminoles didn't shy away from discussing their season-long goal of avenging the prior season's deflating ending.

This made the aftermath of Monday's win for the Seminoles, who returned all but one player from that team that came up one win short, that much sweeter.

"We weren't gonna come back home this time without a trophy," Howell said. "It's the goal every year. It's the standard every year for this program. Especially since we did lose so close in the spring, it was in the back of our heads always. As we were meeting, as we were training, everyday we were working hard, it was always in the back of our heads."

Notre Dame men defying expectations

Justin Frommer

South Bend Tribune | USA TODAY Network

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — The Notre Dame men's soccer team has been defying expectations all season long.

It was picked to finish last in the Atlantic Coast Conference preseason poll.

It was seeded fifth in the conference tournament, only to go on and win without allowing a goal in four games.

And Saturday, in its men's NCAA Tournament Elite Eight game at home against No. 5 Pittsburgh, Notre Dame battled back from a 1-0 deficit to win 2-1 in a penalty kick shootout, advancing to its first College Cup since 2013.

Time and time again this season, the Irish have exceeded whatever ceiling people outside of their locker room have placed over them.

"We had a chip on our shoulder, and that chip isn't going anywhere until we win the national championship," defender Paddy Burns said after the win.

That chip is headed to Cary, North Carolina, where No. 4 seed Notre Dame will play No. 8 Clemson. No. 3 Georgetown will play No. 2 Washington in the other semifinal.

Blowing a lead in the season opener to No. 2 Indiana. An overtime loss at Virginia Tech. Falling behind for the first time in the NCAA Tournament, but inside Notre Dame's locker room, there was a belief this season would end with the Irish determining their destiny, no matter what polls or pundits said.
